A COWARDLY ASSAULT.

Mrs. G. A. Lindquest Knocked Down and Robbed Monday Night.

The Assallant Received One Cent for His Beastly Act and Escaped.

6 o'clock, Mrs. G. A. Lindquest, who had been doing some shopping in the city, was returning to her home on Eighteenth street, between Jackson and Leavenworth streets, Just as she approached the corner of Eighteenth and Jackson streets, she felt a hand laid heavily upon the back of her neck, and she was pushed forward to the ground, at the same time she was struck a heavy blow upon the top of her head which stunned her for a few moments.

As the lady fell to the ground the villain, whoever he was, seized her purse which was hanging upon her arm, and made his escape. In the purse was just one cent in money and some pieces of

SERIOUSLY HURT.

An Injured Man Wanders About Nearly All Monday Night,

Henry Williams, a young man who for some time past has been at work on a B, & M. construction train, met with a very severe accident on Monday night last. In attempting to get off of a B. & M. passenger train near the U. P. bridge he foll and received serious injuries about the head. In a semi-conscious condition he wandered about all night and at 4 o'clock Tuesday morning was found tryrear of Dr. Lewis' drug store, on the corner of Thirteenth and Jones streets. He was taken care of and sent to the railroad ward of St. Joseph's hospital. He has no rememberance of his wander-ings, and when found had no money on his person and no papers except his pass. # DISTRICT COURT.

The Proceedings of Yesterday Before that Tribunal.

In the district court yesterday, before Judge Neville, the jury in the case of Kunn against Banks returned a verdict for plaintiff of $1,150. The case of Rous against Wright was then taken up to a jury. This is the third trial for this case, a verdict for defendant in the first having been set saide by the supreme court, and a disagreement of the jury in the second. It is an action for damages brought on the bond of defendant, who is a justice of the peace, for an attachment alleged to have been unlawfully is sued by him against the property of plaintiff. The damages are laid at $500.
